Dear Frank:

Being with you at the Texas Press Association meeting in San Antonio was a rewarding experience for which Dr. James Landes, our executive secretary; Dan Martin, our press director; and I are grateful.

We were thrilled with the caliber of people, such as yourself, who make up the association. It was a joy to discern first hand your commitment to the highest ideals of a free press. We were made more aware than ever that the daily and weekly newspapers such as yours, along with the churches, are doing more than any single force to upgrade the quality of life in our nation.

We will continue to urge our Texas Baptist churches to support you and to work with you in support of Christian principles.

Sincerely,
Orville Scott

SCHOOLS TO RECEIVE EXTRA FUNDS

Cameron schools will receive $51,835 under the Emergency School Finance Bill soon to become law with the Governor's signature, it was announced by County Supt. Max McClaren.

Other Milam County schools will receive lesser amounts, including $42,016 for Rockdale, $13,730 for Thorndale, $9,628 for Milano, $3,555 for Buckholts, and $1,828 for Gause.

Rep. Dan Kubiak explained to Supt. McClaren that the Milam County schools will receive these funds in addition to what has already been allocated by the state for the current school year.

Total for Milam County is $122,642.

The bill, expected to clear the Texas Legislature soon, appropriates a total of $80 million to help Texas public schools meet expenses of the present school year, Kubiak said.

"The emergency funding is necessary because our present school finance system does not cover the cost of public education," Kubiak said. "This situation makes it clear that the legislature must act this year on an entirely new school finance system."

Kubiak, chairman of the House Education Committee in the last legislature, said he will be sponsoring one of the major proposals for revamping the school finance laws.

Cameron School Supt. Buddy Dulin said that the extra funds can be used for anything under the Minimum Foundation Program, including salaries, maintenance and operation, and transportation. He said he does not know yet what CISD will spend the funds on this year.

Supt. McClaren also reported that the Milam County Adult Basic Education program and ACE adult education co-op is scheduled to receive $5,000 additional monies for this year.

The money will be used to expand the now current program for disadvantaged adults and also be set up ESL (English as a Second Language) classes for the Spanish-speaking disadvantaged adults in Milam, Robertson, and Burleson counties.

TSTI Existence Threatened

J. H. Kultgen, chairman of TSTI trustees, warned Waco Chamber of Commerce directors that without a more "united front" toward the Texas Legislature, TSTI will pass out of existance. "We are still kind of a political football being tossed around down there," he said. All state schools are fighting for "a piece of the pie" and TSTI is suffering because it does not have enough support in Austin.

Cameron's Plan Under Review By COG, State

Cameron's Community Development Plan is now under review by both the Central Texas Council of Governments and the State Department of Community Affairs, according to A. W. McCullin, director of the local Community Development Agency.

McCullin presented the plan, which calls for the expenditure of $136,000 the first of five years, to the COG at Belton and to the state department on Tuesday of last week.

McCullin said the COG will review the plan by Feb. 20. He was advised by the State that review would be complete in two or three weeks. After the reviews are completed, the application for funds will be submitted to the Department of Housing and Development at Austin for approval.

Plans for the first year call for sewer installation in the Mexican-American section of town, playground and street and drainage in the O. J. Thomas School area, and demolition of dilapidated, vacant houses in the city.

McCullin said the application would be refiled each year after about nine months of operation.

Cameron is eligible to receive some $492,000 over a five-year period under the Better Community Development Act.

Turning Audacity Off...

We wonder why the high price of Arab oil? A main reason is both the domestic and foreign resolve of the Shah of Iran, who is more and more like a grand shiekh of a Moslem fanaticism of 1200 years ago.

This is nationalism, priming the coffers of other nationalistic ambitions, purchasing blue-chip influence in major Western industries, luring 49 percent interest in Iranian domestic development, the technical side.

Christian Science Monitor's Dana Adams Schmidt sees the Shah's overall goals clear:

--To make Iran one of the richest nations in the world by 2000.

--To attain "European" standards of living in shorter time.

--To reach military strength great enough for "partnership" with the U.S. and become the greatest nation in the Persian Gulf.

Gross national product has risen 40 per cent in the past year and Russian-style five year plans have been doubled to capitalization of $70 billion.

Major American industries will be minority partners as part of exchange for Arab oil we use. Other Western industries may participate outside of oil companies, which may be nationalized while the new technology enters.

The Shah moves billions into the currencies of major nations and Moslem nations shadowboxing between East and West. He intends to retain Moslem solidarity in the vast Middle East.

The Shah can do many things. But not all. If he falters as wealth reaches the Iranian people, minority factions may find the tinder to thwart even the massive spending.

A secret police is diligent in seeking out dissidents among National Front opposition, Tudeh communists or an opposition party in Parliament, which is all but mute.

Doing all these things, the Shah reminds of Charles DeGaulle who restored France to stability in Western Europe.

Much of his success will depend on how the U. S. responds to barrel-head diplomacy. And if the Shah is as big a man as his pocketbook says he is, he will do something about pricing inequity which in a few brief years could turn off the spigot as quickly as audacity turned it on.

Getting 'Et...'

The difference in animal survival and people survival is dramatized by a quote from a Reuters piece about author Peter Benchley and the star of his novel, "Jaws."

He describes the most perfect, most feared and oldest killer of the deep, which he has observed at almost zero distance underwater.

"It's a beautiful animal in terms of natural perfection. It moves with incredible grace and beauty. And you have the feeling there is no malice there, no seeking for vengeance, just a normal hunting for a food source.

"He's not trying to hurt you; he's trying to eat you."

Upright sharks are motivated by avarice and vengeance which they rationalize as survival. But the minute they meet a force of nature, the struggle is as impersonal as a shark snapping off a swimmer's leg.

And unless the two-footed shark is both smart and lucky, he gets "et."

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

EXPLAINS GASOLINE RATIONING SYSTEM

Senator Hugh Scott (Pa.) ". . .At the request of the Federal Energy Administration. I ask unanimous consent that an "analysis of Gasoline Rationing" be printed in the Record." (A few excerpts follow):

ANALYSIS OF GASOLINE RATIONING

Each licensed driver in the country would receive an equal monthly allotment of coupons entitling him to purchase 36 gallons a month at the controlled price. These coupons could be freely traded or sold. The coupon market would permit those drivers with needs greater than those represented by the monthly allotment to purchase additional coupons from those who use less than their monthly amount.

Commercial users would receive coupon allotments equivalent to 90 percent of their consumption during the 1973 base period.

For that limited class of users for whose special needs the coupon resale market is not a reasonable solution, 3 percent of the coupons would be set aside and distributed by the state. This distribution would be based primarily on emergency or hardship.

Coupons would be picked up in person at the Post Offices by each eligible individual. They will be invalidated at the pump at the time of purchase, and deposited by retailers with banks in a special coupon account. Gasoline deliveries to suppliers will be made to retailers only for amounts equivalent to coupons collected.

It is expected that the coupons will sell for about $1.20 per gallon. Hence, for those who must purcchase more than their basic ration, the effective price of gasoline (pump plus coupon price) is estimated at $1.75 gallon.

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

The Federal government and the state governments should make every effort to encourage independent drillers to seek new oil fields.

There is no shortage of public transportation in Washington or any of our state capitals. With gasoline rationing however, it's doubtful that any law makers will be discovered riding a bus to work.

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW

Two Emerge To Fill China's Political Vacuum

PEKING Reuter--Two men have emerged from a recent flurry of top-level appointments here as key figures in the collective leadership formed as China's answer to its impending succession problem.

These two, Teng Hsiao-Ping and Chang Chun-Chiao, dominate the group of top communist party men who, through a series of interlocking appointments announced at a nd since the secret meeting of China's parliament, the National People's Congress, now have a firm grip on the country's bureaucracy and armed forces.

Their role will be to fill the vacuum left in Chinese politics after the eventual disappearance from the scene of China's oldest leaders--Chairman Mao Tse-Tung, 81, Premier Chou En-Lai, 76, and unwell, plus veterans like Chu Teh and Tung Pi-Wu, both party leaders in their late 80s.

Only a few years ago a working partnership between Teng, the stocky party bureaucrat from southwestern Szechuan Province, and Chang, former jounalist from Shanghai, now in his mid-60s, would have been virtually unthinkable.

The same cultural revolution that tore Teng from high office and plugged him into political disgrace saw Chang gain rapid promotion from his Shanghai power base to the upper levels of the party leadership, with a reputation as a leading left-leaning activist.

But in the past two years the twists and turns of Chinese political life have brought Teng back from limbo to become again one of the nation's most powerful men.

Shortly before the Congress, he was promoted to vice-chairmanship of the ruling communist party with a seat on the standing committee.

At the congress he was named as the senior of Chou En-Lai's 12 deputy premiers, and this was followed by the surprising news .that he had also been appointed cheif of staff of the armed forces--a post rarely if ever allotted to a civilian.

Just one rung below Teng on the political ladder stands Chang, a member of the party standing committee since August 1973, and since the recent congress, the second vice-premier in the state council, China's cabinet.

At the same time as Teng's military appointment was revealed, Chang was named as top political commissar of the People's Liberation Army (PLA) with the title of director of the general political department--like Teng's a post traditionally held by a professional soldier.

The rountine work these jobs involve will almost certaily be carried out by professional subordinates--men like Yang Cheng-Wu, an acting chief of staff in the 1960s, disgraced in the cultrual revolution and recently rehabilitated--while Teng and Chang ensure that the armed forces keep to their role as the obedient tool of the party.

While these two are the most senior of the emerging group to hold important posts in all three national hierarchies--paty, army, and bureaucracy--a number of their colleagues in the party's powerful politbureau also combine several jobs.

Eight of the 12 vice-premiers in the state council are politbureau members, including Chen His-Lein, influential commander of the Peking military region, who may now be responsible for the country's defense industries.

Hua Kuo-Feng, also a holitbureau member and vice-premier is another important figure as minister of public security, a post which has gained new influence as a result of recently approved changes in the state constitution.

Oil Rush Takes Toll Of Lives

LONDON Reuter--The rush for oil off British shores is taking a growing toll of lives as divers plunge to depths where no man has worked before.

Nobody seems quite sure just how many men have died since oil prospecting started in earnestbeneath the North Sea off Scotland and the Irish Sea between Ireland and England.

One unofficial tally puts the number of deaths at 16 since the start of 1971.

As the diving depths increase, there are fears that casualties must get more frequent.

One British doctor involved with the diving field, Dr. John McCray, said recently that the oil boom might cost some 800 workers' lives.

This includes likely accidents on the oil rigs where falling loads, whiplashing cables, and stumbling from slippery steelwork have cost about 35 lives since 1965.

Until recently the world depth record for a man outside a diving bell was 438 feet (132 meters).

Now. oil divers are working at more than 500 feet (150 meters) and there are plans to send them as deep as 1,100 feet (335 meters).

Knowledge of the medical problems encountered at such depths is slim. One press report recently estimated that in all of Britain there were probably only four doctors truly expert in deep-diving medicine.

At extreme depths, every system in the diver's body is under severe pressure, bringing difficulties that even astronauts do not have.

The commonest threat is the ailment known as the bends. This happedn when a man is brought too quickly to the surface. Gases that have turned to solution under great pressure in the body tissues then expand with a suddenness that can cripple or kill.

On Jan. 1 last year, the British government brought in new rules governing fitness standards and maximum hours permitted at various depths. A diving school is being set up at Loc Linnhe in the west of Scotland.

Even so, the hazards remain formidable. Because Britain urgently needs the oil to pay off its international debts, prospecting and extraction must go ahead at full speed.

And new discoveries are from now on most likelyto be found in the deeper waters nearer the edge of the continental shelf.

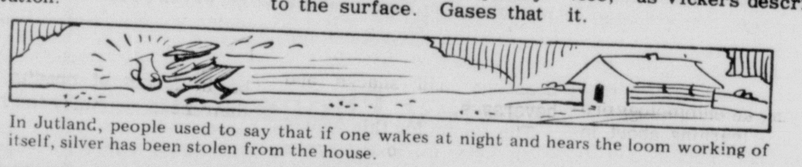
Deepsea diving now rates as easily the most dangerous occupation in Britain, well ahead of mining or working on a fishing trawler. The work is tedious as well. In recognition of this the divers are paid up to $70,000 a year.

In the long weeks aboard diving ships and under the waves, the men have no way of spending this money.

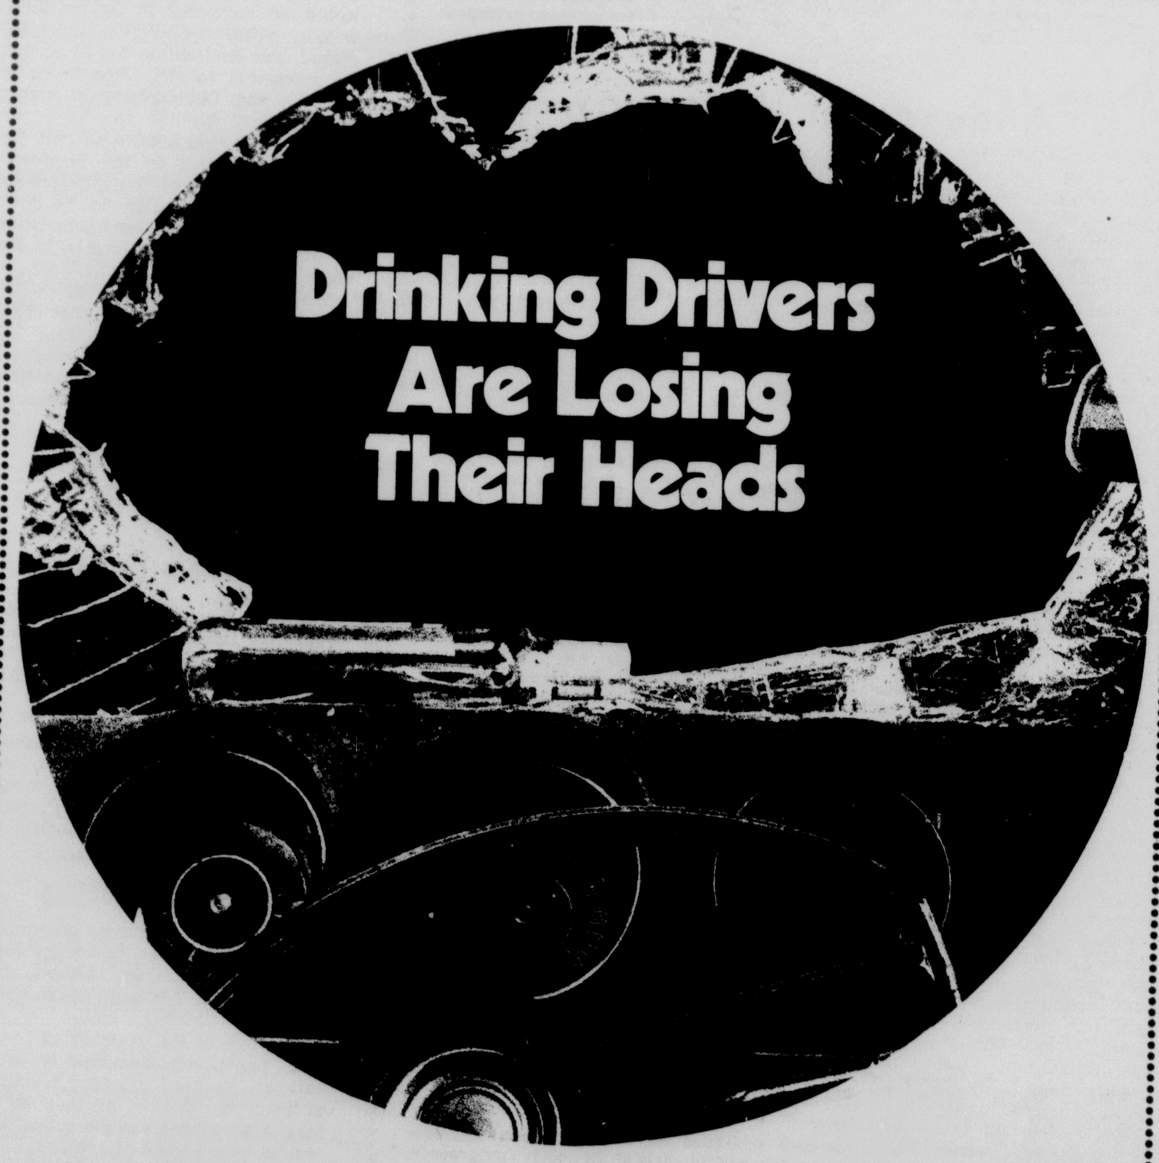
On leave ashore, many take relief in wild drinking sprees. One oil company executive said: "We loose more divers in drunk driving accidents than under the sea."

New diving equipment is being developed allthe time. The British company Vickers Oceanics Limited has marketed a midget submarine which can take divers down as far as 1,200 feet (360 meters) and let them out to work through a lockout compartment.

When the seabed task is finished, the submarines will take the diver back to the support ship "like a taxi service," as Vickers described it.



In Jutland, people used to say that if one wakes at night and hears the loom working of itself, silver has been stolen from the house.



And their arms, legs and loved ones. So the next time you see someone that's a little bit tipsy . . . do a friend a favor. Drive him home, call a cab or call a cop. But, stop him from hitting the road . . . or worse.

Gardeners Can Save Fertilizer

Home gardens are appearing in backyards, flower beds and on patios all over Texas. And with continued high fertilizer costs due to low supplies, homeowners should give special attention to conserving fertilizer.

Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service offers these suggestions:

1. Have soil tested. Many home gardens are already fertile enough to produce good yields of most vegetable crops. Soil samples may be sent to the Soil Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University. Information is available at any county Extension office.

2. Apply only light applications of fertilizer at planting time. In absence of a soil test, use one-and-one-half to three pounds of a complete fertilizer, such as 888, 10-10-10-, or 12-12-12, per 100 square feet of garden area. Thoroughly mix the fertilizerwith the soil. Use organic fertilizer and compost whenever possible.

3. If at all possible, use mulch in the garden to aid in moisture retention and to prevent leaching of plant nutrients.

4. If vegetable plants appear to grow slowly or lack good color, sidedress lightly with a quick-acting fertilizer. Siddress leafy crops as lettuce, cabbage, and greens after they develop six to eight leaves. Fruiting crops such as tomatores, peppers, and squash will respond to light applications at flowering. Avoid over-fertilizing or allowing fertilizer to come in contact with plants or roots.

Home gardening can be expensive and fertilizer is one of the more costly items, points out Cotner. Therefore, it should be used wisely.

Bullock Looks Into Court Taxes

Comptroller Bob Bullock said Friday that his office is looking into local handling of the state criminal justice tax, including reports that some courts mistakenly put the $2.50 tax on parking tickets.

The tax, levied by the Legislature in 1971 to support the Criminal Justice Council, covers only moving traffic violation convictions, bond forfeitures on moving traffic citations, and criminal law convictions.

Bullock said the taxes wrongly put on parking tickets are subject to refund to people who paid the taxes but that the burden for all refunds rests onthe city and county courts which levied the ta x by mistake.

The state, in turn, will reimburse the local courts upon proof that a refund was actually paid the ticket holder, Bullock said. Refunds to cities and counties will be in forms of credits on their next quarterly tax report.

Bullock said his review of local handling of the tax started following reports in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram that North Rickland Hills charges the tax on parking tickets. Similar situations have since been found in other towns but apparently no large cities are involved.

The reports filed with the Comptroller by local officials show only the number of total convictions and amount of tax collected. There is no breakdown of convictions by type.

The ta x raises about $6 million a year for the Criminal Justice Council.

JOHANNESBURG

When a white family moves into a new house in South Africa, their first visitor is often an African, asking to become their servant. In Joahnnesburg alone, official figures show that two households in three have an African woman domestic. Most of the maids live alone in outbuildings at the bottom of the garden, coming to the house to do chores from diaper changing to cooking the dinner.

WARSAW

Tales of corruption in the local apparatus of the Polish Communist Party, with tentacles spreading to Warsaw, are receiving a public airing at a current trial. In the trial in Central Poland, a former mayor and his deputy head a list of public officials accused of diverting state funds to finance a life of drinking parties and luxury villas.

ZURICH

One year ago Alexander Solzhenitsyn was accused of treason, stripped of his Soviet citizenship and bundled on a plane with a one-way ticket for the West and freedom. But there was no celebrations in the author's surburban household here, for the transition from being a harassed dissident to a free and prosperous author has in many ways been a painful one for him and his family.

SAIGON

The Saigon government, already facing a continuing Communist challenge, has entered a new confrontation with one of the staunchest anti-Communist groups in the country, the Hoa Hao Buddhist sect. The immediate target is the provate militia which the sect runs in the five provinces of tee Mekong delta region, where it claims up to three million adherrnts.

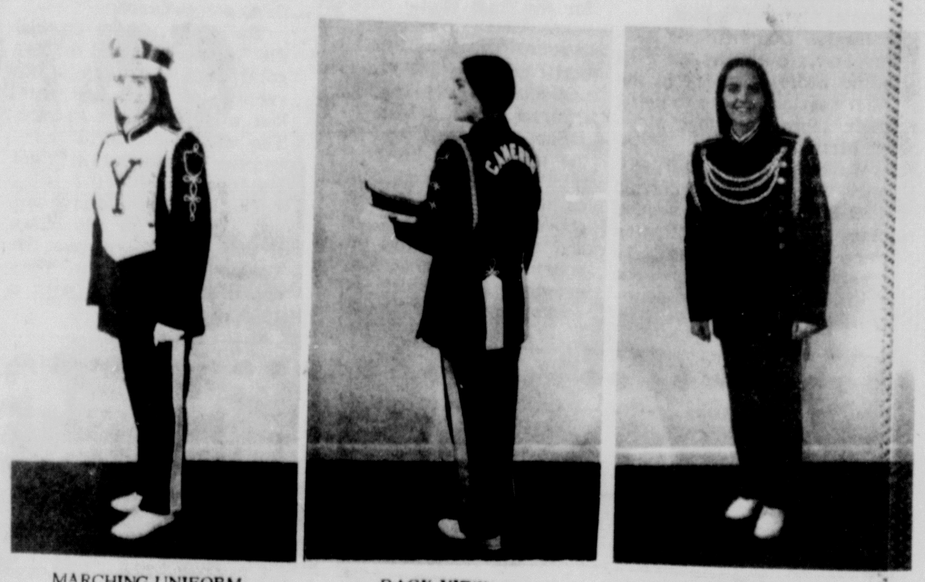
Yoe Band To Get New Uniforms And Assistant Band Director



MARCHING UNIFORM — BACK VIEW — CONCERT UNIFORM

One hundred fifty new band uniforms will be purchased and an assistant band director hired as a result of an unanimous vote by members of the Cameron ISD.

The new "Concert-syled" uniforms will be maroon with accents of silver-sparkle on the shield, shoulders, sleeves, coat-tail, pants, and hat. The word "Cameron" will be written across the back of the coat in silver-sparkle trimmed with maroon braid.

The assistant director will be "team teaching" with present band director, Jerry Bartley.

Bartley said that the band in is need of the uniforms in order to provide one for each high school student. He said that the present unforms will be altered for use by the Junior High band who will be participating at the junior high football games this fall as well as marching in parades, UIL Marching contest, and UIL Concert playing and sight-reading in the spring.

Bartley stated that the addition of an assistant would aid in reaching more students who need help with music problems, without interrupting the teaching process of the other students.

"What's the status of TP&L's nuclear power plant?"

A. Construction of the Comanche Peak Steam Electric Station was begun recently at a site about five miles north of Glen Rose in Somervell County.

Q. "How much land area will be involved?"

A. Approximately 8,500 acres. This will include a 3,200-acre lake adjoining the plant which will provide cooling water for the plant.

Q. "When will TP&L customers start getting electric power from the plant?"

A. The first of two 1,150,000-kilowatt units is scheduled to go into operation in 1980 and the second in 1982.

Q. "Will some other companies be getting power from the plant?"

A. Yes. The plant will be jointly owned and utilized by Texas Power & Light, Dallas Power & Light and Texas Electric Service.

Q. "Why is a nuclear plant necessary?"

A. Rising costs and a shortage of future supplies of natural gas and oil compel use of more economical and readily available fuels for generating plants. Within the next five years, TP&L will reduce its dependency on gas and oil with plants designed and constructed to burn lignite-coal. While it is anticipated that lignite will continue to be an important fuel well beyond the year 2000, the long-range solution to fuel problems appears to lie in nuclear generating plants.

Q. "How safe will the plant be?"

A. The planning, construction and operation of the Comanche Peak plant is subject to close examination and rigid regulation by the Atomic Energy Commission and other federal and state agencies. Devices and procedures in the plant will guard against every conceivable possibility which might endanger plant employees or the general public. Today, there are more than 50 nuclear generating units in the United States and there has never been a nuclear-related injury to a commercial nuclear power plant worker or member of the public.

Yoe Takes District Title Undefeated

The Cameron Yoemen marked an undefeated district record Friday night by defeating Hearne. The Yoemen took the district crown when Randy Sapp tossed in the winning basket in the last 2 seconds, making the score 58-56.

In the first half it looked like an easy road to victory for the Yoemen, but the second half the scene changed into the hottest contest of the season for the Yoemen.

Eagles Don Hill and Lester Davis put together a 19 point scoring attack in the final section of play to bring their team to a near playoff birth.

Walking into the final period the Yoemen donned a 50-39 lead over the second place Eagles. The Eagles were not to be denied of 10 straight points before the Yoemen were able to penetrate their hoop.

With two minutes remaining, the Eagles slipped into a tie with the scoreboard showing 52 all. It looked like the Yoemen had been placed on ice and the Eagles took advantage by dropping in 10 straight points from the top of the key.

The Yoemen countered the next Eagle score and with 10 seconds remaining, the score read an even 56 all.

Randy Sapp began the stall for the final shot. Sapp en route for the basket via the corner controlled the ball until he gave the Yoemen undisputed first place in District 23-AA.

Sapp shot 100% and made the last basket with the district championship resting on his ability. Sapp came above the mounting pressure and tallied 8 points in the scoring department for the evening. Jafus White set the scoring pace for the Yoemen with 19. Mike White also hit double figures by pumping in 12.

The Cameron Yoemen will play the Burnett Bulldogs in Bi-District action. The Yoemen will play the Bulldogs in Taylor Gym, Tuesday night, Feb. 25, at 7:30 p.m. Tickets .75 for students and $1.50 for adults. Coach Poole is trying to schedule a couple of warm-up games but nothing has been confirmed at presstime.

The final ledger showed the Yoemen finished the regular season with a distritc record of 14-0 and marked a 17-3 season record. The win over Hearne marked the Yoemen's 15 straight victory.

The Eagles could have caused a playoff for the crown if they could have upset the Yoemen Friday night. They ended their season with a 12-2 record.

In the junior varsity action Cameron took a 36-31 decision over the Eagles.

In the freshman action the Yoemen whipped the Eagles with a strong 52-31 victory.

Alcoa Lake Open All Week

With spring fishing fever only a month or so away, there's good news at one of Central Texas' best-known bass lakes.

Aloca Lake, an 850-acre man-made reservoir located about 6 miles southwest of Rockdale adjacent to Aluminum Company of America's Rockdale Works, is open for seven-day-a-week fishing and all-night angling from the docks for the first time in its 21-year history.

Fred P. Bergeron, Alcoa's Texas area manager, made the announcement while revealing that the lake concession is under the new management of Allen Ballwe and Ferrel Woods, both of Rockdale.

They succeed the late Jamie Wallis, Alcoa Lake concessionaire from 1960 until his death last fall.

Proclaimed "Bass Haven" by many area anglers, Alcoa Lake underwent an extensive remodeling program last year. A new boat launching ramp and dock were constructed, a channel dredged for easier access to the ramp and the picnic area was refubished.

A one-dollar fee is charged for both boat launching and off-the-dock fishing, accofing to the new concessionaires. Water skiing, swimming, and night fishing from boats are still prohibited. Boats and motors may be rented at the site.

Fishing will be permitted from both boats and dock from sunrise to sunset, and from the dock only after dark. No overnight camping will be permitted, but the picnic area is equipped with running water, picnic table, and restrooms for daytime outings. The concession stand stocks bait and fishing supplies as well as so.. drinks and snack items.

Constructed primarily as a cooling pond for Rockdale Works' electrict generating plant, the 85-acre lake, whicl was one a lignite-mining area was opened to the public for fishing and recreational activities in 1954. State hatcheries provided 23,677 bass, 3,200 bluegills, and 5,000 channel cat during the initial stocking.

Consumer Market Report

Poultry offers economical protein choices at the supermarket this week, according to M--s. Gwendolyne Clyatt.

"Chicken hens are a good choice, and egg supplies are adequate for the demand--with little change in prices," the consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, reported.

"Currently, Grade A, large-size eggs give the consumer more for his money," she added.

"Another good value is fish, and many varieties are available in frozen form with little or no waste," The Texas A&M University System specialist said.

Of beef, Mrs. Clyatt said special prices are not extensive, although some appear on chuck cuts and ground beef. Also, some markets are highlighting rib or T-bone steaks and beef liver.

"Real pork values are difficult to find, but good choices, pricewise, include Boston butt roasts, smoked picnics, liver, and roll sausage.

"Cheese specials are dairy counter features, along with milk and sour cream."

At fruit and vegetable counters, the specialist noted some features on Temple oranges as they reach a peak harvest, and she said grapefruit and pear supplies continue to be heavy--with orange supplies ample.

"Most plentiful vegetables include cabbage, potatoes, carrots, onions, turnips, squash, and cooking greens."

THE ABOVE FIRMS SUPPORT THE YOE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

PROCLAIMS WEEK--Mayor Gene Blake, right, signs proclamation honoring the Brazos Chapter of the Texas Society of Professional Engineers during National Engineers Week, Feb. 16-22. With him is Franklin Shenkir, resident engineer with the Texas Highway Department in Hearne.

Record Funds Paid In Social Security Benefits

A record $31,952,268 was paid out in social security cash benefits to residents of Texas in calendar year 1974, according to Pete Wall social security district manager. This was an increase of $3,848,000 over the total paid out in the year before.

Legislation enacted in December 1973 provided for an 11 percent increase in monthly benefits effective June 1974, with 7 percent of this amount payable for March 1974 through May 1974. Benefits also will increase automatically in future years and the first possible automatic increase in benefits would be effective for June 1975.

Of the social security benefits paid to beneficiaries in Texas during 1974, $19,600,980 went to retired workers and their dependents and $8,555,280 to the survivors of workers who have died. Another $3,796,008 was paid to severely disabled workers and their dependents.

Nationally, social security cash benefit payments in 1974 totaled $58.5 billion. This was about $7.1 billion higher than in the previous year.

At the end of December 1974, about 31 million men, women, and children were receiving monthly social security benefits. The number of persons on the benefit rolls increased by over a million during the course of the year, Wall said.

Retired workers and their dependents account for about 63 percent of all those receiving payments. The survivors of workers who have died, including children and their widowed mothers, aged or disabled widows and widowers, and aged dependent parents, make up close to one-quarter of all those receiving social security payments. Anothr 12 percent are disabled workers and their dependents.

Social security is not only a program for the elderly, Wall said. Almost 24 percent of all beneficiaries are under age 60, and 15 percent are under age 22.

Ivey To Pull At Fort Worth

Competing for the big purse money at Fort Worth will be Thomas Ivey of Cameron. Ivey will enter his 12,000# tractor the last night of the three night pull, March 7, 8, and 9. On Sunday night, Marc h 9, Ivey will compete with other Southwest pullers for money and trophies in the stock tractor class.

This night will be one of the most active nights of the Southwest Championship Tractor Pull with tractors pulling in the 7,000# stock out-of-state class, the 12,000# unlimited, and the 1700# mini-class. The mini-class will be "garden" tractors with powerful engines pulling a specially designed sled down a 150' dirt track.

So far Ivey is the only puller from Cameron entering the Championship Pull.

County Youth To Compete In Show

Twenty-three members of the Milam County 4-H Club and 14 members of the Buckholts High School FFA Chapter will compete in the junior division of the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo to be held Feb. 19-March 2.

The competition in the junior events is set for the second week of the show when 4-H and FFA boys and girls from allsections of the state will be vieing for top premiums and prizes.

TNHA is the professional association of licensed nursing and custodial care homes in Texas.

Rep. Kubiak's Bill Seeks State Presidential Primary

AUSTIN

Rep. Dan Kubiak said Wednesday he has asked the House Elections Committee for early approval of his bill creating a Texas Presidential Primary.

Kubiak said his legislation allocates 75 percent of Presidential convention delegates according to primary results, with the remaining quarter chosen by eachosen by each party's state convention.

"My bill would give each candidate the same fraction of delegates as received in the statewide primary," Kubiak said. "A candidate who gets one-third of the popular vote would get one-third of the 75 percent figure."

While state party conventions have become more representative, Kubiak said, the primary is needed as a direct expression of the people in choosin Presidential candidates.

"Very few Texans can attend precinct or county conventions, and those who do are often so confused by procedural rules they don't know what is going on," Kubiak said. "If the parties want to involve the people in selecting a candidate, the way to do that is clear--let the people vote."

Kubiak said his bill retains a strong role for state conventions by giving them authority to choose 25 percent of the national convention delegates according to party rules.

"My bill is aimed at preserving the leadership position of the state party and at the same time giving the people a preponderant role in choosing presidential nominees," Kubiak said. "The form of primary I am proposing would make the entire process more democratic."

TEC Places 328 In Jobs

The Temple office of the Texa s Employment Commission placed 328 people in jobs during January as compared to 323 a year ago. Veteran placements totaled 91, which was slightly higher than last year.

Bad weather, coupled with economic conditions, caused some employers not to replace employees who left due to normal attrition.

Uncemployment claims continued to show an increase in January as compared to last year. The Temple office processed 458 claims compared to 232 for the same period a year ago.

Employers placing orders for workers through the Temple office are able to select from many well-qualified applicants. About the only industry reporting skilled shortages is the medical field.

Inherited Genes Determine IQ Score

A stude being made by University of Texas psychologists indicates that a child's intelligence is determined more by the genes he inherits than by his enviornment.

The UT researchers have been able to make that assessment by comparing the IQ scores of adopted children with the IQ scores of their natural mothers and their adoptive mothers.

The IQ scores reveal consistently that the adopted children, although exposed to the same enviornment as their step-brothers and step-sisters, have IQ's closer to those of their natural mothers.

Interest On GI Homes Down

The maximum interest rate on Veterans Administration GI home loans was dropped from 9 percent to 8.5 percent effective January 21, 1975, it was announced by Richard L. Roudebush, Administrator of Veterans Affairs.

Roudebush, who established the lower VA rate after consultation with the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development, noted that the reduction was the second since last November 24 when the maximum interest rate was 9.5 percent. The new 8.5 percent rate will also apply to FHA home loans, he added.

The 8.5 percent rate is the lowest since April 1974 when the reate was increased from 8.25 to 8.5 percent. The rate was increased to 9 percent last July, then to 9.5 percent last August, then was cut to 9 percent effective November 25, 1975.

The half-percent decrease would mean as much as $9.90 per month savings to the typical veteran home buyer, and over the 30 year life of a $27,500 loan, the total saving could be as much as $3,535.
